THE MAGIC OF WORDS

Birthered from the deepest throes of the mind

Possessing powers impossible to bind

Flowing at times, raging at others

The soothes by friends,
the chides by mothers

A gift of the divine to Man so wise

An expression of the supreme,

THE MAGIC OF WORDS

By the beach as I sit,
Admiring the sky as it's lit
By the sun and its counterfeit
All I desire is for beauty to fit.
Saffron Covers the sky
Turning to Dark
Words can't quantify
The Magic This Makes

THE MAGIC OF WORDS

They say if it uses all its might
It could easily win the fight
Against the venomous sword
But all it is, is a mere word.
Trapped in the mists of our mind
There are many in kind
From the most passive
To the most aggressive
Once uttered, can never be forgotten
They may be praising, but also rotten
This is the magic of words
Which can defeat
A million mighty swords.
